Legislature Reconvenes Amid Tension Over Leader's Actions

HARRISBURG (UP) — The state Legislature reconvenes today in an atmosphere of tension over the tangled affairs of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission and demands for legislative investigations of mid-term firings of state employes and officials by Gov. George M. Leader.

The Republican-controlled state Senate will receive the governor's nomination of Merritt A. Williamson, dean of the College of Engineering at Pennsylvania State University, to a $13,000 a year post on the scandal-touched toll road agency.

The governor announced he will submit Williamson's name when the Senate reconvenes this afternoon to give the commission a working quorum of three members.

Two of the present members, Chairman G. Franklin McSorley, Pittsburgh Democrat, and James F. Torrance, Export, a Republican holdover, were suspended from their posts last Friday by the governor because of indictments returned against them by a Dauphin County grand jury.

Cited for Misconduct

McSorley was cited for misconduct in office for supplying a chauffeur to former Commission Chairman Thomas J. Evans after Evans left the agency. Torrance and Evans and 20 others were accused of conspiracy in an alleged multi-million dollar swindel of turnpike funds in contracts to fill in abandoned mines under the Northeastern Extension.

Williams, a Republican, was named by the governor "without political considerations" to fill the vacancy created by the death last year of Commissioner David E. Watson, Philadelphia.

Williamson, 41, came to Penn State last July succeeding Dr. Eric Walker in the engineering post when Walker was advanced to university president.

Although Williamson's term would run until June, 1961, the governor said he had agreed to serve "for this emergency period only."

The governor will meet with legislative leaders of both parties Tuesday night at the Executive Mansion to outline his plans for reorganizing the commission. He proposes to rip out the present setup and the powers of the pres-

Jodon said it is not necessary for a youth to know how to play a musical instrument in order to qualify for enrollment. A qualified instructor will give lessons.

Once the group is organized, Jodon said he wil also set up an athletic program at the Salvation Army gymnasium.

At least seven persons were injured.

Authorities said the truck skidded on an icy patch on Route 764 and jackknifed into the path of a Blue and White Lines vehicle headed into Altoona.

The wreck occurred on a highway between Duncansville and Altoona at about 11:20 a.m. near a spot known as Burns Corners.

McDonald Opponent In Donora

At a Dues Protest rally held yesterday in Donora, Don C. Rarick, independent candidate for president of the United Steelworkers (AFL-CIO), said "fear" is preventing him from revealing the names of persons who allegedly offered him a $250,000 bribe to withdraw his candidacy.

Speaking to approximately 400 persons in the High School auditorium, Rarick, a McKeesport steelworker who is seeking to replace USW President David J. McDonald, told the rally that a Gary, Ind., union member was beaten because he supported the anti-McDonald faction.

"I don't want the same thing to happen to my family and friends," Rarick said.

He went so far as to say that "gun play may be brought into it by my opponents."

The 37-year-old Rarick said he expects to reveal the source of the bribe "very soon."

'Job was Offered'

"They (the opposition) are doing everything they can to stop me from telling about the bribe.

"If anything happens to me in the meantime, another person knows the facts and will reveal them."

Rarick claimed that McDonald "himself promised me a job as his righthand man in the international and he also offered jobs — good paying jobs — for persons on my side.

"The job was definitely offered," he said.

Rarick drew a loud applause when he shouted,

"I told him nothing doing."

He referred several times to the charge that he was offered money and a "good job" if he withdrew from the race.

Rarick attacked what he called the "high pressure tactics" used by McDonald in heading the USW. He claimed the raising of the monthly dues from $3 to $5 was "steamrollered through" at the international convention held in San Francisco last September.

Hoover Recall Hinted by Ike

WASHINGTON (UP) — The White House hinted strongly today that Herbert Hoover Jr., retiring as undersecretary of state at the end of this month, will be called back to government service.

Hoover paid what amounted to a farewell call on Mr. Eisenhower today before turning over his post to Christian A. Herter, former Republican governor of Massachusetts.

After Hoover visited with Mr. Eisenhower, the White House released this brief letter from the President to the undersecretary. It said:

"As the day of your actual departure from Washington comes nearer, I want to repeat my deep regret and, above all, the hope that in due course, and at some not distant date, you will be available again to serve your government as you have done so patriotically over the last four years. I want you to know that a hearty welcome always awaits you."

Rarick Fears Reprisals

C Rarick, independent candidate for president of United Steelworkers, at a Dues Protest rally yesterday afternoon at Donora. Others are John K. TELLS OF $250,000 "BRIBE" — Rarick told some 400 steelworkers that he "definitely was offered a quarter of a million dollars in bribe money" if he would quit his race against USW President David J. McDonald. He said "fear" is keeping him from naming persons making the bribe, stating he wants to protect his family and friends.

Kelley Settles Libel Suit Against Newsmen

NEW YORK—Rep. Augustine B. Kelley, D., Penna., has settled a half million dollar libel suit against newspaper reporter and author Lee Mortimer and the estate of Jack Lait, author and former editor of the New York Daily Mirror.

The settlement, made before Federal Judge Vincent L. Libell, included apologies by Mortimer and the Lait estate and payment of an undisclosed sum to Congressman Kelley for legal fees.

Kelley claimed that Mortimer and Laith had libeled him in their book, "U. S. A. Confidential," by charging that he had received campaign funds from the "Mannarino gang." The Mannarinos are well known Westmoreland County racketeers.

The apology for the Lait estate, signed by Laura Belle Lait, the author's widow, said it "regrets that any language appearing in 'U. S. A. Confidential' should have been construed as reflecting on Congressman Kelley or that he had any arrangements with any gang to get votes or campaign funds."

"We are convinced," the statement said, "that nothing deroga-

Asks 'Gag' Rule To Speed Okay Of Ike Doctrine

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Thomas S. Gordon of the foreign affairs committee asked for a House "gag" rule today to speed President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution to quick passage.

Such a rule would prohibit members from offering any changes in the resolution and allowed them only to vote to approve or reject it.

Gordon made the request before the House Rules Committee which controls the movement of all legislation to the floor.

Rep. William M. Colmer (D-Miss), an influential rules committee member, told Gordon: "I gag on your gag request."

Colmer said the Senate would take "weeks" to debate the resolution but that Gordon was proposing a "take it or leave it" approach in the House.

Gordon replied that House consideration would be "a long, drawnout affair" if every House member were allowed to offer amendments. He said he and the affairs committee wanted to give Mr. Eisenhower "every possible speed" in getting congressional approval.

The resolution would authorize President Eisenhower to use military force, if necessary, to shore up the Middle East against Communist attack. It also would authorize expenditure from present funds of up to $200 million in economic aid on the area.

Wage Boost for Service Workers

PITTSBURGH (UP)— Building service workers of four big Pittsburgh department stores have voted to accept a new wage agreement boosting pay 7½ cents an hour for men and 6 cents for women.

The contract accepted by Local 29, Building Service Employes Union was expected to set the pattern for new agreements between the stores and 13 other unions, representing about 7,000 workers.

The BSE contract covers 350 employes of Kaufmann's Frank & Seder, Horne's and Gimbels. The agreement is the first negotiated under this year's reopening clause of a three-year contract signed in 1955 after a 15-month strike.

Takes Steps to Block Battle On Segregation

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress today to vote $2,220,000,000 in federal aid over the next four years to help states overcome a "most critical" shortage of schoolrooms.

In a 2,000-word special message to the House and Senate, the Chief Executive appealed for quick passage of an "emergency" program designed to overcome the nation's present "deficit" of about 159,000 classrooms.

In an effort to head off the fight over school segregation riders which blocked action on a similar school program last year, Mr. Eisenhower appealed to Congress to enact the measure "on its own merits, uncomplicated by provisions dealing with the complex problems of integration."

President's Proposals

The President proposed:

1. Federal grants of $325 million annually for the next four years, a total of $1.3 billion, to help build public schools in "financially needy" school districts. The federal money would be distributed under a complex formula taking into account the number of school-age children in a state and the state's average income per school-age child.

2. During the first year of the program, 1957, the federal aid would have to be matched by outlays from either state or local school district funds. After the first year, the matching funds would have to come solely from state funds—a requirement aimed at states which now make little or no contribution to school budgets.

3. The matching funds would be calculated on a formula based on the state's income. The poorest states would put up 50 cents for each $1 of federal aid, the richest states $2 for each $1 of federal aid.

4. Any state which falls below the national average in the proportion of its income devoted to schools, or in dollar expenditures per pupil, would have its federal aid grant "reduced proportionately."

To Buy Bonds

5. The federal government would spend up to $750 million over the four years to buy bonds issued by local school districts which have been unable to market their bonds commercially at "reasonable" interest rates. These bonds would be purchased at an interest rate equal to the rate paid by the U.S. Treasury on its own long-term securities, plus one half of one per cent.

6. Federal advances of $150 million over four years to help state agencies build schools which would be turned over to local school districts on a "lease-purchase" plan. It was estimated that this federal nest-egg would enable such state agencies to float bond issues of their own bringing in a total of $6 billion.

Road Conditions Clear, but More Ice Is Forecast

Slightly rising temperatures and rain late this morning eased the ice-slick conditions on streets and highways in the Monessen district.

State Police reported at noon today that most roads in the area were clear of ice except for a few "high spots."

The roads became icy during the night when the district was invaded by a mixture of rain, sleet, freezing rain and snow.

A misty rain was falling in the district at noon but is expected to change into sleet or freezing rain sometime before midnight.

Tomorrow's weather will be mostly rain with some snow flurries expected.

Temperatures ranged from 25 to 30 degrees dueing the night. Tonight's low will be around 28, according to the Weather Bureau.

Tomorrow's temperatures will be mostly in the 30's.

The outlook for Wednesday was cloudy and colder.

Personal Help With County Tax Here Tomorrow

Representatives of the Westmoreland County Board of Assessment and Revision of Taxes will be in Monessen City Building tomorrow from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. to assist residents in making out personal property tax returns. It was announced today by Andrew Kritsky, chairman.

Representatives were in North Belle Vernon today. They will be in the West Newton Borough Building from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. Friday.

Kritsky said that tax forms have been sent, to all persons known to possess personal property, but he called attention to the fact that failure to receive a form does not excuse any holder of personal property from paying the four mills tax. Among the taxable items are stocks, bonds, mortgages, notes, judgments and other evidence of indebtedness.

The deadline for filing is Feb. 15.

News Director Fired At in Racial Violence

By UNITED PRESS

Shots fired at a white televisions news director were linked today to possible retaliation for police apathy in anti-Negro bombings during weekend racial violence in the South.

Bob Underwood, 30, news director and announcer for WCOV-TV in Montgomery, Ala., was slightly cut on the face by flying glass from two shots fired through his windshield Sunday night, police reported.

Police earlier arrested two members of an angry throng of some 500 Negroes who gathered after a dynamite bomb damaged a Negro home and slightly injured a Negro cab driver.

Receives Phone Threats

Another bomb, a dud, was hurled at the home of the Rev. Martin Luther King, leader of the Negro bus integration movement, police said. Both incidents occurred shortly before dawn Sunday.

Underwood told police that during the last 13 months he had received a dozen threats from unidentified telephone callers who accused him of favoring whites in his news repodts on the integration situation.

The latest caller protested because he had praised police for capturing six escaped convicts in one day, Underwood said. He said the call pointed out that no arrests had been made in the repeated bombings.

Furnished Good Target

Underwood said the sniper apparently had no intention of hitting him, since he furnished a good target while walking from the television station to his car in an adjoining parking lot.

The explosion Sunday shattered a Negro's home and damaged a nearby service station which served as a Negro cab stand. Three Negro cab employes were shaken in addition to the injured driver.

A package of 12 sticks of dynamite bounced off the front door of King's home but smouldered on the porch without exploding, police said.

Bring Deliverance

GLENWOOD, Ill. (P)— Ministers brought deliverance to 400 school pupils here Sunday. They delivered school officials' messages that there would be no grade school today because of a broken water pump.

Egypt Warns Israel Must Leave

Will Take Action on Its Own

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UP) — Egyptian government sources said today in Cairo that Egypt will be forced to "take action on its own" unless the United Nations succeeds in forcing Israel out of the Gaza Strip.

The sources said unless there is an unconditional Israeli withdrawal from all Egyptian territory Egypt will take action ranging from closure of the Suez Canal as a first resort, to a military counter-offensive against Israel as a last resort.

In Jerusaem army spokesman Lt. Col. Nehemia Brosh said Syrian shore batteries opened fire today on Israeli fishing boats on the Sea of Galilee, wounding a fisherman. The area was the scene of heavy clashes last year.

Denounce Hammarskjold

The Egyptian position was made public in Cairo shortly after Israel announced plans to develop the Gaza Strip in defiance of United Nations demands it quit all territory captured from Egypt, and after Israel denounced Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold's approach to the situation.

Egyptian sources said today's General Assembly debate in the U.N. on the Middle East would prove a crucial point in the worsening Middle-East crisis.

Both Egypt and Israel expressed disappointment in Hammarskjold's report which called for complete Israeli withdrawal from the Gaza Strip and from the Sinai shore on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Reacts Angrily

Israeli Foreign Minstry spokesman Moshe Leshen said in Jerusalem that Hammarskjold wanted to return to "the very state of affairs which brought about the present crisis." He described Hammarskjold's view on Gulf of Aqaba navigation a "masterpiece of obscurity."

Egypt reacted even more angrily. Government sources expressed disappointment that Hammarskjold failed to demand unconditional withdrawal of Israeli forces and said Egypt is prepared to go along with the U.N. only if the U.N. is ready to restore pre-invasion conditions.

HELD AS RED SPY — Mrs. Myra Soble, 52, is shown with an FBI agent after she was seized in New York with her husband, Jack, and Jacob Albam. The trio was charged with gathering and transmitting national defense secrets to officials and employees of the Soviet Government "continuously" since 1947, when Mr. and Mrs. Soble became naturalized American citizens. They are being held on $100,000 bail each pending a hearing on February 1, 1957.

ent commissioners and have the toll road run by a non-salaried board of outstanding citizens and the state Highways Department.

Meanwhile, Republican State Chairman George I. Bloom called for a full-scale legislative investigation of the governor's "housecleaning" in his administration, highlighted by the recent dismissal of John R. Torquato, Cambria County Democratic chairman from the cabinet post of secretary of the Labor and Industry Department.

Bloom, in a weekend statement, centered his fire on the dismissal of 27 employes in the Sales Tax Bureau and said if the governor does not make public his reasons the General Assembly should make a "complete investigation" of why sales tax receipts are falling below estimates.

In connection with the Torquato ouster, the governor also suspended 23 investigators on the payroll of a special $1,170,000 fund administered by the secretary. The fund has been put under the control of the governor's office, subject to the customary budgetary provisions of the administrative code.

Both Republican and Democratic lawmakers are demanding an inquiry into operations of the Labor and Industry Department, particularly the special fund.

Student Nurse Has Close Call

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A student nurse from Blairsville, Pa., almost bled to death today when she cut her arm in an accidental fall in her room at the Medical Center Nurses Home.

A classmate found Rita Gelston, 20, unconscious on the floor at about 7 a.m. Authorities said Miss Gelston, who is studying at Presbyterian Hospital, apparently fell against a table and cut her arm on a piece of a water pitcher which smashed when the table upset.

Doctors said Miss Gelston was in fair condition after receiving blood transfusions.

7. Grants of $20 million over four years to cover the administrative costs of state planning programs aimed at working out long-range solutions to school shortages.

Urging speedy action on his program, Mr. Eisenhower said the task of educating the nation's youngsters is "unprecedented in its sheer magnitude."

"The number of pupils in public schools has increased by 5½ million in the past five years, an will further increase by about 6 million in the next five years," he said.

"We have already reached an all-time peak in enrollment in colleges and universities. Yet, in the next 10 to 15 years, the number of young people seeking higher education will double, perhaps even triple."

Mr. Eisenhower emphasized repeatedly that the educational task before the nation is "basicly a state and local problem," but he conceded the necessity for emergency federal assistance in the construction of seriously needed new school buildings.

He proposed that the first year of federal construction grants—at an annual rate of $325 million—be made on an outright basis. During the following three years, he said, the federal grants should be matched by state-appropriated funds.

Request Slightly Higher

Mr. Eisenhower's recommendation for construction grants was slightly higher than the $1,250,000,000 he asked last year. He said the program was "designed to accomplish in four years what last year's proposal would have done in five, since one year has already been lost."

On construction grants, the President repeated his 1956 recommendation that federal funds should be distributed on the basis of need and effort, as well as the school age population.

"An allocation system based solely on school age population would tend to concentrate federal aid in wealthy states most able to provide for their own needs," he said.

The President said federal aid should "stimulate greater state and local effort for school construction." He noted that many states now make no contribution for construction, and others put up only a relatively small amount.

"To increase total funds for school construction, federal grants should be matched by state appropriated funds after the first year of the program."

A formula granting federal funds only on the basis of school population, instead of need was another factor in the defeat of last year's school legislation.

Outlining the need for new classrooms, the President said schools today have 2.25 million more children than their normal capacity. Many other schools are too old or inadequate and should be "promptly replaced," he added.

Despite record school construction in the last several years, he continued, "it cannot now be said—realistically—that the states and communities will meet the need."

Strengthen Teaching Profession

His message also contained a plea to states and communities to "expand their efforts to strengthen the teaching profession."

"Far more needs to be done, in our various communities to enhance the status of the teacher—in salary, in community esteem and support—and thereby attract more people to the profession and, equally important, retain those who bear so well the trust of instructing our youth," he said.

He said he is also asking increased funds for the U.S. Office of Education to provide statistics and analyses on educational trends and other services to schools.

10 Persons Are Killed in State Traffic Accidents Over Weekend

By UNITED PRESS

Traffic flow along Pennsylvania highways during the week end was below normal, but speeding and carelessness combined to send the fatality count soaring above the usual figure.

A United Press count showed 10 persons lost their lives in traffic mishaps from 6 p.m. Friday until last midnight.

Another person was killed at Erie when he was struck by a train while walking over a grade crossing.

The fatalities:

Oxford: Joan Carrigan, 14, of Cochranville RD 1, was killed early Sunday when an automobile in which she was returning from a high school dance crashed into a pole after skidding off an icy highway. The driver, Robert Miller, 21, a neighbor of the dead girl, suffered critical injuries.

Pittsburgh: Route 22's "death bridge" about 18 miles west of here claimed another victim Sunday when Louise Graves, 35, Pittsburgh, was killed. State police say she was a passenger in a car which struck the bridge abutment. Steve Dutkowsky, 30, the driver, and an unidentified passenger escaped with only minor injuries.

Washington, Pa.: Albert Garcia, 54, Donora, suffered fatal injuries Sunday in a two-car collision on Route 18, 12 miles north of here. Theodore Kaczmare, also of Donora, and William Mitchell, Meadowland, Pa., suffered minor injuries.

Erie: A 24-year-old Corry, Pa., man was struck and killed by a Pennsylvania Railroad train Sunday at a grade crossing not far from his home. Police said Lawrence Miller probably did not see the train approaching. Relatives said he had poor eyesight which was further impaired by a parka hood he was wearing at the time he was struck.

West Chester: Mrs. Margaret Mayers, 74, of Quinton, N.J., died of injuries Sunday after a station wagon collided with an automobile near here. Her son-in-law, Chester Knowland, 62, of Reiffton, Pa., was reported in serious condition at Chester General Hospital.

Chester: John T. Graham, 20, was killed and a companion, James J. Doyle, 25, suffered severe lacerations when their car overturned in Delaware County after swerving to avoid hitting another machine.

Clearfield: Emil Navalie, 47, Ansonville, died Saturday night in a hospital here of injuries suffered in an accident earlier in Irvona Borough. Joseph C. Bloom, 29, the driver of the car, sustained possible fractures of the pelvis and legs.

Johnstown: A skidding accident Saturday night near Patton resulted in death for a 19-year-old youth from Dysart, Pa. Police identified the victim as Robert J. Link. His car hit a pole.

Harrisburg: Mrs. Nora B. Bowers, 37, Hummelstown RD 2, died Friday night in a collision between a station wagon and a car. Three other persons were injured.

Schwenksville: Jack Strait, 58, was killed Sunday when he apparently fell asleep at the wheel and his car crashed into a pole.

Pittsburgh: A six-year-old Pittsburgh boy was killed Saturday night when he was struck by a machine after darting into the street from between two parked cars. The victim was Daniel R. Seibert of Forest Hills. Harry Chambers, 18, Wilkins Township, was the driver of the car which struck the child, police said.

the convention said.

"If there had been a roll call vote on the issue, the increase would have been defeated. Instead, they made it a voice vote. They had some of the members so scared of reprisals that they wouldn't commit themselves."

He said the $2 wage increase will be recinded when he "beats McDonald" in the union's quadrennial election Feb. 12.

He declared that when he gets elected he will "kick out all the loafers who are living the life-of-Riley on your (the members) money." This also rated loud applause.

He is against the appointment of staff representatives. He said they should be elected by the members and not appointed by the international.

"The opposition seems to forget this is a union made up of the rank-and-file and not just a few selfish persons."

He demanded that members have the right to disagree with union officials without "fear of reprisals."

He was cheered when he said there is no room "for a dictatorship in labor."

Rarick stated he was pleased with the large turnout, which was a mixture of loyal Rarick supporters and men known to be favoring McDonald. Some said they were attending the meeting "out of curiosity."

Stanley Sokol, chairman of the "Monessen for Rarick Committee" headed the 20 to 30 present from Monessen.

Rarick was introduced by Nicholas Mamula, national chairman of the Dues Protest Committee.

He introduced Rarick as a man who "turned down a quarter of a million dollars."

Louis Busto, chairman of the Donora-for-Rarick, and John K. Taylor, secretary, were in charge of the rally.

A similar statement came from Mortimer to Arthur Block, attorney for the Congressman.

"This is to assure Congressman Kelley," it said, "that I have always maintained that nothing in 'U. S. A. Confidential' by Jack Lait and the undersigned, was meant to refer to or be a reflection on the patriotism, morality, honesty and good citizenship of Congressman Kelley."

The libel suit was filed in 1953. Lait died the following year.

In a pre-trial examination, Congressman Kelley admitted he knew Sam Mannarino but denied emphatically receiving campaign contributions from him.

One Killed in Saratoga Fire

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (UP)—A fire and explosion killed one person, injured 16 others and gutted $2.5 million worth of buildings Sunday in this resort city.

Some 30 families were left homeless by the five-hour fire which firemen believed was touched off when an oil burner exploded in a bowling alley.

Gas escaping from an unknown source filled the area around the still smouldering debris and made the work of crews clearing the burned out site extremely dangerous.

Policeman Fred Pettit, 41, was killed when a second explosion collapsed a bowling alley wall. Fire Chief Robert Carroll was hospitalized after he was pinned in the wreckage. Fifteen others including firemen, policemen and bystanders also were injured.

For More Federal Judgeship Positions

WASHINGTON (UP)—Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary Committee planned to introduce a bill today to create 38 new federal judgeships to help relieve court congestion.

The New York Democrat said the bill also would make permanent four present temporary judgeships.

Celler said the measure would give the federal judiciary "the largest single contribution of manpower" in the nation's history. He called it a major step towards ending delay in hearing federal court cases.

Celler said new judges are needed to take care of a "tremendous increase" in the number of suits filed—62 per cent—since 1941.

Two judges would be added to the Second Circuit Court of Appeals, covering New York, Connecticut and Vermont. The Fourth Circuit Appeals Court, covering Maryland, North and South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia, would get one additional judge.

New district judges would be added in:

New York, six; Pennsylvania, four; Ohio, three; Texas, three; Connecticut, two; Louisiana, two, and one each for California, Colorado, Florida, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maryland, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Alaska.

Under Celler's bill, temporary judgeships in New Mexico, Utah, middle Tennessee and Western Pennsylvania would become permanent.

In his report, Read announced a $35,000 increase in gross income for 1956. He said the four per cent dividend declared on shares amounted to approximately $60,000 for the year. He also stated that in addition to the dividend, a five per cent refund on loan interest was granted.

Meanwhile, at the 20th annual meeting of the MacBeth Evans Division Employes Federal Credit Union Friday, the group reelected James Sharp, Sr., of Charleroi, as president. Also reelected were Peter Peters, vice president; Harry Wilhams, treasurer; Adam Franks, assistant treasurer, and Arthur Duttine, clerk.

James Conant Quits Germany Diplomatic Post

WASHINGTON UP — The White House today announced the resignation of James B Conant as U. S ambassador to Germany, effective about Feb. 15

President Eisenhower expressed "deepest personal regret" in accepting the resignation of the envoy, a former president of Harvard University.

Conant informed the President on Dec. 1 that he wanted to leave his post to return to private life for personal reasons.

Conant served as high commissioner and later as ambassador to West Germany for about five years.

Mr. Eisenhower in his letter of acceptance said Conant served with "great distinction and honor"

The President said Conant through his "tireless and skillful efforts" played an important role in the return of Germany to "its rightful place in the family of nations"

"We will miss your outstanding work in Germany, and I, personally, shall miss your wise counsel on which I drew so frequently in connection with the many important problems that have confronted us during the years you served in Bonn," Mr. Eisenhower wrote Conant.

The White House gave no clue as to when a successor would be named.

Another Suspect in Slaying of Sisters

CHICAGO (UP)—A man sought as a Skid Row dishwasher's suspected accomplice in the slaying of two teen-aged sisters turned up in custody today on another charge.

Police said they were already holding on a disorderly conduct charge William Willingham Jr., 26, Richmond, Va., a self-styled hillbilly singer and photographer's salesman.

Mrs. Minnie Duras, Skid Row restaurant proprietor, identified Willingham as the man who was with the dishwasher Bennie Bedwell and the Grimes sisters—Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13.

Bedwell has already confessed beating the sisters and tossing their bodies into a snowy ditch on the city's outskirts. He said he was accompanied by a man he knew as "Frank."

Police said Willingham told them he knew Bedwell but denied any part in the deaths of the Grimes girls.

"I don't know anything about this and I never went out with those girls," he said.

Willingham said he had not seen Bedwell since before Nov. 28, when Willingham was sentenced to 30 days on a previous minor charge.

He said he never went under the name of Frank, and expressed a willingness to cooperate with authorities.

Police awakened Bedwell from a deep sleep and showed him a photograph of Willingham. Bedwell told them it bore a "close" resemblance to "Frank," but he couldn't be sure.

Face to Face Meeting

Authorities planned to bring the two together face to face later today.

Willingham is held in the bridewell, or city jail.

In his confession Bedwell indicated the girls may have been alive when he stripped them and tossed them into the ditch beside German Church Road.

Bedwell was asked if the girls were alive when he and his companion undressed them.

"They didn't move anyway," he said. "I didn't know the girls were dead."

Later in his confession, however, he said he took "the bodies and laid them over the guard rail."

Bedwell dictated his signed statement to sheriff's police Sunday. He admitted the girls were killed after a series of drinking bouts in Skid Row bars.

Bedwell then was taken to the city's southwest suburbs where he reenacted the brutal crime before a crowd of thousands of onlookers.

Booked On Murder

The suspect showed how he and a man he identified only as Frank slugged the two girls in a car when the victims resisted their advances, stripped the girls of their clothes and then dumped them in a ditch in near zero weather.

Bedwell was booked on two charges of murder.

Services were held today for the victims, Barbara Grimes, 15, and her sister, Patricia, 13, at St. Maurice Roman Catholic Church where the sisters had worshipped.

Their mother, who has been on the point of collapse since the girls' bodies were found last Tuesday, kept a grim vigil beside the closed white coffins in the chapel. Her grief was heightened by Bedwell's confession.

Says Suspect Lies

"It's a lie," the mother, Mrs. Loretta Grimes sobbed.

"My girls wouldn't be on West Madison St. (Skid Row)," she said. "They didn't even know where it was."

Pathologists, who have been unable to determine the cause of the sisters' deaths, said Bedwell's confession contains some questionable points in light of the autopsy.

There were no significant marks of violence on those bodies," a pathologist said, although Bedwell told authorities he and his companion slugged the girs in the face.

The Grimes sisters disappeared Dec. 28 after attending a movie starring their idol, singer Elvis Presley, for the 11th time.

Commando Kelly, Family to Stay In Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UP)—World War II hero Charles E. (Commando) Kelly plans to accept a post with the administration of Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler rather than a job in St. Louis, his wife said here Sunday.

The Kellys had planned to move to St. Louis with their family of six after Kelly accepted a job as a buyer for a scrap iron firm last fall. The Congressional Medal of Honor winner received national publicity and financial aid after he became ill and destitute here.

He had made a $1,000 down payment on a 14-room, $25,000 house in St. Louis for his family, which now occupies a housing project unit.

Mrs. Betty Kelly, wife of the hero of the Italian campaign, said, "We're staying in Louisville because we feel we could be happier here. The job Gov. Chandler offered us last year is still open Moving to another city is something that upsets the children."

She said they hoped to recover the down payment on the St. Louis home, paid in part by Kelly's prospective employer there.

Kelly said last fall that Chandler had offered him a job with the State Highway Department.

Study Group Charges State with Helping 'Bootlegging Revival'

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — The Pennsylvania Alcoholic Beverage Study, Inc., an independent study group, today issued its biennial report containing seven recommendations for legislative consideration.

As in the last few reports, the group again charged the state with "continuous and progressive profiteering" in the operation of the liquor monopoly, and warned that "it is leading to a revival of large-scale bootlegging."

The group's recommendations included:

1. Reduction of Pennsylvania's "inordinate" revenue from alcohol. The PABS urged the "elimination of the profit motive" from the state's sale of liquor, pointing out that Commonwealth profits rose from $51 million in 1945 to $92 million in 1955.

"It is true that this mercenary policy has yielded vast revenues to the Commonwealth," the report said. "On the other hand, there is grave danger in a policy which makes revenues from alcoholic beverage amount to 18.4 per cent of the Commonwealth's entire revenue."

The PABS pointed out the state places a markup on federal taxes, and deplored the necessary continuance of the 10 per cent tax originally enacted to provide relief during the depression 20 years ago.

The PABS urged it was "high time the legislature put a stop to the profiteering practices of the Pennsylvania Liquor Control Board."

2. "The Quota Limitation Act should not be weakened by exception. The PABS said the law which limits the number of licenses issued to retail establishments "is the strongest single factor in liquor control in Pennsylvania" and should be continued. It urged that private clubs should not be exempted from this law.

3. The PABS urged continuance of the authority of the Liquor Control Board to issue, renew and transfer licenses.

4. The group emphasized that local option laws should not be changed substantially. It pointed out that it continues to oppose proposals to change the local option areas from municipalities or townships to counties or wards. It said that county-wide option is "too large to reflect public opinion within the county while "a ward is too small a unit to be representative."

5. The PABS charged that prohibition of Sunday sales in Pennsylvania is "a relic of the blue laws", and urged the legislature to "follow the pattern already adopted for professional football and baseball, and for commercial moving picture exhibitions on Sunday." The group said it was "intolerable" that Philadelphia is the only one of the seven largest cities in the U.S. "subject to this out-moded ban on Sunday sales."

6. The PABS urged continuance of "Pennsylvania's constructive program for rehabilitation of alcoholics." The group said it was "gratifying" that Pennsylvania set up the program, and urged the legislature "to give this program continuing support." PABS said the present modest expenditures should be continued until "the Commonwealth accumulates experience in this field."

7. "The Liquor Control Board should be given discretion to refuse transfers of retail licenses."

More Help for Crippled Youth Needed in County

Increasing need of help for crippled children and adults throughout Westmoreland County is evident in the increased demands for service placed upon the Easter Seal Society, according to Mrs. A V. Crookston, of Greensburg president of the organization.

Mrs. Crookston made the announcement following the quarterly meeting of the Society's directors at the Easter Seal Clinic, 310 E. Pittsburgh street in Greensburg.

Easter Seal staff and quarters are being pressed by the program which last year benefitted more than 200 families. Mrs. Joseph Laufe, Clinic committee chairman, reported that during December 94 physical therapy treatments were administered. 104 speech cases handled and 22 diagnostic examinations conducted.

Directors took action to segregate funds of the organization which are earmarked for the acquisition of new facilities. A move to larger quarters has been under study by the board during the past year.

"A larger Easter Seal campaign is a necessity for Westmoreland County this year", Mrs. Crookston declared. "We all want to see better facilities for the handicapped, exppecially the children, and realizing this goal depends upon the success of the public appeal which supports our work".

Police also reported two other accidents involving pedestrians.

Steve Gaspich, of 423 Clarendon avenue, Monessen, told police his car struck John Novakovich, of R. D. 3, Belle Vernon, near 17th street and Schoonmaker avenue Saturday. Novakovich was treated by a local physician and taken home.

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Anna Fedarko, who died 20 years ago today, January 28, 1937.
Today our hearts are heavy,
Our thoughts are all of thee,
Oh! How we miss you, mother, dear,
No one but God can see.
Some say time heals an aching heart,
But, no, it isn't true,
For 20 long years have passed, dear mother
And our hearts still ache for you.
Sadly missed by daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Michael Shuma: Husband and Sons.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mercy Snosky, who died one year ago today, January 28, 1956.
She is gone but not forgotten
And as dawns another year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of her are always near.
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Friends may think the wound is healed.
But they little know the sorrow
That lies within the heart concealed
Sadly missed by Sons, Daughters and Grandchildren

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Thomas Barron, who passed away 21 years ago yesterday, Jan. 27, 1936.

Clark Approves Tito's Visit to United States

WASHINGTON (UP)— Four freshman senators — two Democrats and two Republicans — said Sunday they approve of Yugoslavia's Marshal Tito visiting this country.

Their views clashed sharply with those of a bipartisan group of congressmen in the House who want to block a possible invitation to the Communist leader to visit here.

Sens. Frank Church (D-Idaho), Joseph Clark (D-Pa), Thruston Morton (R-Ky) and Chapman Revercomb (R-WVa) gave their views over a television program.

House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack (Mass) and Rep Alvin E. O'Konski (R-Wis.) have taken the lead in opposing an invitation to Tito, reported being considered by the administration O'Konski has said he would resign if Tito is invited to make an official visit to the United States

The four senators said the decision should be left up to the executive branch.

King Saud Is Host To Party Aboard Liner

ABOARD THE LINER CONSTITUTION AT SEA (UP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia gave a king-sized party aboard the liner Constitution Sunday night — 1,600 guests, or everybody aboard

The invitations were out to all first class, cabin class and tourist class passengers and crew of the American Liner that is taking Saud to New York en route to Washington for talks with President Eisenhower.

Capt. James W Labelle of the Constitution and George Wadsworth, U S Ambassador to Saudi Arabia, were guests of honor at the king's table.

The King's sons Prince Fahd and Prince Muhammad were hosts at other tables while the King's bodyguards stood by with gold swords and incense burners as signs of traditional Arab hospitality.

Few Changes in Income Tax Returns; April 15 Deadline

By RUSSELL C. HARRINGTON
Commissioner of Internal Revenue

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Internal Revenue Service has tried to make taxpaying easier for you this year, by making no substantial changes in the income tax returns you have to file.

The tax law is essentially the same as last year and the rates of the tax are the same, so we have made no substantial changes in the forms. The time you spent preparing last year's return, therefore, should stand you in good stead this year, because you will be covering familiar ground.

The one change we have made in the blank forms was to satisfy the many taxpayers who use the simple punch card tax form and want to know how much they owe—instead of leaving the arithmetic for us. For them, we have devised a quick, three-line calculation method to be used if they so choose.

But before I explain that, let me lay down the very basic rules of federal income taxation, in which there have been no changes at all:

April 15 Deadline

The regular deadline for an individual to file his or her return is still midnight of Monday, April 15. The sooner you file, of course, the sooner your return will be processed for billing or possible refund.

The upwards of 65 million people who must file are, in general, those who are citizens or residents of the United States under 65 years of age, having income of at least $600. Individuals who are 65 or over need file only if their income is $1,200 or higher

There are two basic forms on which to file—Form 1040 (white paper) and Form 1040A (a buff colored card, the size of a check, and almost as easy to fill out).

Most taxpayers can use the brief and simple card Form 1040A including many who are troubling themselves unnecessarily with the longer Form 1040.

The card form is specifically designed for persons whose income last year was less than $5,000 and was in the form of wages or salary from which the employer withheld money for federal income taxes every payday. A salary or wage earner with up to $100 of extra income—from a part-time job or dividends, for instance—may also use the card form, so long as his total income was less than $5,000.

Covers Married Couples

A husband and wife who earn less than $5,000 from their combined wages and salaries, including not more than $100 in other forms of income, may also use the simple card Form 1040a to file a joint return.

People whose total income is $5,000 or more and those having more than $100 income not subject to withholding must file on the longer Form 1040.

People whose income is less than $600 need not file any tax return at all, BUT... if taxes were withheld when it was paid to him, he is entitled to a refund. You must file a return to claim that refund.

The card Form 1040a calls for 16 items of basic information, which do not have to be detailed here—such things as your name and address, Social Security number, employer's name, your wages, income tax withheld, names of children and other dependents and SIGNATURE!

As I pointed out earlier, this year's card form has the one noteworthy change we have made in the tax forms.

Has Simplified Form

The card form has three new lines which give you the option of calculating how much tax you owe in addition to what has been withheld, or how much refund you have coming.

If you choose to make this calculation, and find you owe more than was withheld, you must send the money in with your return. You cannot wait for us to send you a bill. (Anyone who uses the card form will automatically get the standard ten per cent deduction for medical expenses, contributions and the like, without any extra calculating)

Make out your check or money order to "Internal Revenue Service" (we are no longer the "Bureau of Internal Revenue") and mail it with your return to your district director of Internal Revenue. There is at least one district director in every state.

If you choose NOT to make the tax calculation, you send the form to the district director as in the past years. He will figure out your tax and send you a bill or a refund check.

Include W-2 Form

In any case, be sure to enclose Copy B of the Form W-2 which your employer gives you, showing how much you were paid and how much tax he held out of your pay envelop.

When you fill out your return, you may round off the dollar figures you use—eliminate anything less than 50 cents, and increase any amount between 50 cents and 99 cents to the next highest dollar.

If you use only the first page of Form 1040, you determine your tax from the tax table in the official instructions which have been mailed to you (or can be picked up at most post offices). The table gives you an automatic, unseen deduction of ten per cent, to cover medical expenses, contributions, interest and other deductible items.

In filing on Form 1040, you use as much of the four-page form as necessary — one, two, three or all four pages. In any case, you must determine the amount of your tax and send in any balance due (if you owe any) with your return.

If you need help with your return, call on the district office or the nearest field office of the Internal Revenue Service. It helps us (and may save your time) if you telephone first. Then, if your problem is too complicated to be answered on the phone, go in person to our nearest office.

(Tomorrow: Should a husband and wife file joint or separate returns? What about taxes on sale of a house?)

Visiting New Mother? Here Are a Few Rules

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

Everybody wants to take a look at the new baby as quickly as possible. So grandmas, grandpas, uncles, aunts and cousins often come flocking to the hospital to get a gander at the new addition to the family.

Many hospitals have wisely adopted regulations prohibiting just such a tiring parade of visitors to the new mother and her fragile offspring.

Some permit only the husband to visit his wife while others keep the number of visitors to two a day, exclusive of the husband.

Now there are good reasons for this. In the first place, the presence of too many visitors will fatigue the mother and interfere with her routine hospital care. Even more important, the more visitors there are, the greater is the chance of introducing infection into the mother's room.

Still, maybe you are the very person the new mother wants to see most. If you are, here are a few suggestions to follow when paying your hospital call:

Check with the husband first to visit her at the same time you want to go. If another friend has priority, choose another time.

When you do get to see the mother, don't sit on her bed or toss your clothing over it. Probably within a very short time after you leave, that precious little tyke will be brought to his mother's loving arms. You don't want to endanger his life by contaminating the bedclothing.

Don't take your own youngsters with you. Most hospitals won't admit them to the mother's room anyway. This is an extremely important precaution, for children are more frequently sources of communicable infections than adults.

Don't tire the mother. Generally, hospitals limit visiting time to two hours. But if the mother begins to show any signs of fatigue before your allotted time is up, leave right away.

Don't visit her if you have a cold or any upper respiratory infections.

Do tell her what a cute baby she has brought into the world even if the squealing infant reminds you of your own scrawny first-born. After all, he's a good-looking youngster now, isn't he?

Television Actors Suffer from Lack Of Public Notice

NEW YORK (UP) — Consider these names: Phil Abbott, Harry Townes, Frank Overton, Mary Welch, Kathy Maguire, Andy Duggan, Jason Robards.

The chances are none of them evoke a response even though the faces attached to those names have poked their way into your living room on dozens of occasions.

All are practitioners of the TV acting trade and as such, all suffer from a common occupational ailment—lack of public recognition.

Robards, one of this nameless group, appeared last night as the lead in a Goodyear Playhouse cowboy epic, "Nobody's Town." A gaunt-faced, tweedy customer, Robards has competed in some 300 teleplays on such showcases as the Alcoa Hour, Studio One and Armstrong Circle Theatre.

He has tackled a range of roles running from mental patient to newsman. If this gamut strikes you as rather limited, Robards, it might be pointed out, also has donned the cloak of weatherman, field engineer, T-man and villain, in a variety of guises.

Gov. Leader Has An Opportunity

IT IS PROBABLY too early in the "housecleaning" process which Gov. George M. Leader has begun at Harrisburg to tell how far he really means to carry it. It is possible that he is having a momentary fit of righteous indignation which will run its course rather quickly and that the Democratic party bosses who put young Mr. Leader where he is will be back in the saddle again.

We hope, however, that it amounts to more than this. And we suspect most of the people of Pennsylvania, regardless of their politics, hope so too.

What we would like to see Governor Leader do is to make a serious frontal attack on the patronage system, which has made Pennsylvania's state government one of the least respected and one of the least effective among the larger states of the Union. For this system, which goes back to Matt Quay and Boies Penrose, and which has been exploited by both major parties, acts like a millstone around Pennsylvania's neck.

* * *

WE REALIZE that the patronage system is not the only flaw in our state government. For one thing, we have an antiquated constitution which for more than a generation has needed a serious overhauling.

But the cause of constitutional revision, like so many others, is stymied by a political system based on patronage. Both of the party organizations have a vested interest in the status quo, in keeping things as they are. The "outs" do not like to disturb matters because they think they may be "in" again soon and will want the spoils for distribution among their own faithful.

And so Pennsylvania keeps muddling on, going from one financial crisis to another, its tax structure woefully inadequate, much of its personnel lazy and incompetent — or worse. And the problems keep piling up on all sides — education, health and welfare, highways and all the rest — with proposed solutions little more than makeshifts.

* * *

IT IS THOUGHTS such as these which we hope are going through Governor Leader's mind as he begins the second half of his term of office. He has taken some actions lately which suggest that he might possibly be ready to make the kind of attack on the spoils system which we feel is necessary.

The Governor cannot do it alone, of course. Ideally, he should have the cooperation of the legislature, and there is some doubt whether he can get it unless a rising public opinion insists upon it.

But the Governor can do a lot as Mr. Leader has demonstrated these past two weeks. He can do enough, we think, to set in motion some forces which may be able, in due course, to do the rest.

Mr. Leader, as we see it, has little to lose. He is in the doghouse now with some of the big wheels of his party, and even if he were to stop short of a really important effort to cut the millstone from around Pennsylvania's neck in order to mollify them, it is doubtful whether they would ever again want to put George Leader in a place of authority.

But if Mr. Leader should undertake the kind of operation we are thinking about, it seems to us quite likely that he could arouse the sleeping giant of public opinion to the point where it would insist, not just on a short-term housecleaning, but on a thorough modernization of the state government.

If Governor Leader should be the man to put such a process in motion, he would earn the gratitude of Pennsylvania's most thoughtful and earnest citizens, of all political parties.

A Home for Veeps?

ANNOUNCING that he is about to acquire a new $75,000 home, Vice President Richard M. Nixon implies that this is made necessary because of his official position. And he suggests that Congress should provide a home for the Vice President just as it now provides the White House for the President.

Mr. Nixon makes the point that the responsibilities of the Vice President have grown to the point where an official home would make the occupant of this position more useful.

Mr. Nixon seems to us to be getting a little ahead of himself. For although he is possibly the most powerful Vice President in our history, that is so only because President Eisenhower has made it so. It is not the responsibilities of the office which have grown but only the responsibilities which Mr. Eisenhower has seen fit to give to Mr. Nixon.

It is quite conceivable that the next President will not hold the next Vice President in the same regard that Mr. Eisenhower holds Mr. Nixon. In which case, the office of Vice President would again be what it was before the Eisenhower-Nixon relationship made it so important.

We do not think Mr. Nixon makes a good case for an official home for the Vice President. We could name several thousands of things the American government needs before it needs this.

Merry-Go-Round—

Meany, Beck Believed Due For Showdown

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—AFL-CIO President George Meany is scheduled to take on the head of the world's biggest labor union, Dave Beck, in Miami this week. Meany has tangled with Beck before, chiefly over Beck's sponsorship of the racket-ridden International Longshoremen, which the AFL-CIO outlawed. At that time, Beck backed down.

Mr. Pearson

This time the showdown is going to be more serious, for the reputation and honesty of organized labor is on the spot following the refusal of Teamster officials to answer questions before the Senate Investigating Committee in Washington.

Meany and the AFL-CIO Executive Council have taken a strong stand for clean unions. They mean it. Beck, therefore, will have to talk awfully fast or face the prospect of being purged.

Here are some of the things Beck has in his background which he and other Teamster chiefs obviously aren't anxious to testify about.

Last year, the Teamster czar sold a total of $890,000 worth of real estate in Seattle. Why he sold it in a relatively short space of time and where he got that much property in the first place is not known.

Under Tax Probe

It's known, however, that Beck has been under income-tax investigation. The sale of real estate might have been to secure a capital-gains tax to pay tax assessments.

One thing the Treasury has been investigating is whether or not the $163,215 the Teamsters paid to Beck for his house was a gift or income. Beck sold the house to the Teamsters with the proviso that he continue to live in it. On top of that he also sold his furniture to the union for a reported $90,000.

At the recent Senate hearing it was indicated that a Seattle contractor was also paid out of union funds for repairs on Beck's house. This would put the union in the position of paying for repairs on the house, then buying the house it had partly paid for.

The Teamster czar, who had been anti-Eisenhower in 1952, caused amazement in labor ranks when he suddenly came out for Eisenhower in 1956. Some of his colleagues remarked: "Beck's pulling an Adam Clayton Powell" — a reference to the Negro Congressman from Harlem who came out for Eisenhower after he got into tax trouble last summer.

Beck's Real Estate Record

George Meany is a labor leader who believes labor leaders must not profit from the movement they represent. In his files as he meets Beck is a list of the Teamster boss's fantastic real estate deals. Here are the details:

Feb. 27, 1956 — Beck sold two Seattle lots to the Joint Council Building Association, a Teamsters affiliate, for $135,000. The deeds show he bought the lots Feb. 10, 1951 from Vincent Miller and John F. Miller for $1 each.

The lots are now used for private parking next to the Teamsters headquarters. The union expects to erect a building on them.

In brief, Beck made a profit of over $100,000 by selling property to his own union. What some of his members would like to know is why the union didn't make the profit, not Beck.

On May 18, 1955, Beck sold 40 acres near 25 South Ave., in Seattle, to the Blakely Bros. Land Development Co. The records show that Beck and his partner, Sheriff Harlan Callahan, bought the property from the state Nov. 25, 1952 for $6,000. They sold it for $45,000.

Sept. 1, 1955, Beck sold some property occupied by the Sunset Distributing Co., a beer-distributing firm, to that firm for $100,000. According to the records of the Washington Secretary of State, the president of Sunset Distributors is Norman Gessert, a nephew of Dave Beck's wife, Loretta Gessert, listed as secretary-treasurer, is Gessert's wife.

Beck had acquired this property May 1, 1951, for $45,000.

On Sept. 8, 1955, Beck also sold a plot of land occupied by the K and L Distributors, another beer-distributing firm, at 4660 E. Marginal Way in Seattle, to the Cosmopolitan Co. for $225,000.

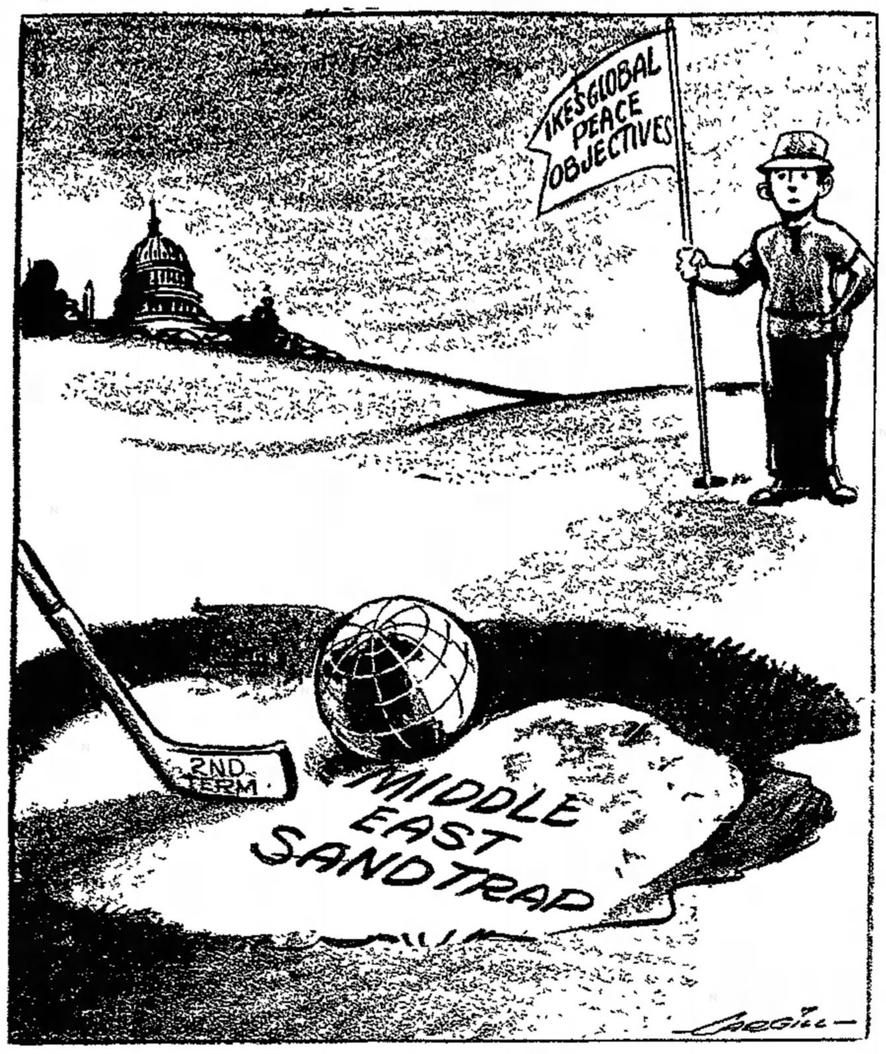
Beck had bought this property July 29, 1955, from his own realty company, which acquired it in 1947 for $91,000.

This again appeared to be a family sale. For the officers of Cosmopolitan are listed as Mrs. Beck's nephew, Norman Gessert; with Dave Beck, Jr., as vice president, and Simon Wampold, secretary. Wampold is the teamster czar's attorney and also a teamster official.

On Jan. 28, 1956, Beck sold nine acres of land to the National Bank of Commerce, which was acting for an unrevealed trustee. The price was $137,500. Beck had bought the land for $14,000 from Howard Sparkman on March 15, 1948.

Beck also sold five lots on Boren Ave. and Jefferson St. in Seattle for a reported $85,000. He and an associate purchased the lots about nine years earlier for a total of around $30,000.

Hole in Two?



Today and Tomorrow—

The Intensified Cold War

By WALTER LIPPMANN

The President was asked at his press conference by Mr. Robert J. Donovan, of the New York Herald Tribune, whether, as compared with the Geneva conference in 1955, there is a "marked hardening of relations between the United States and the Soviet Union, an intensification of the cold war." The President, quite evidently for diplomatic reasons, replied that he really could not say.

Mr. Lippmann

There is, however, no doubt at all that relations with the Soviet Union have taken a sharp turn for the worse. The turn has come since the autumn, and is directly traceable to the two crises which occurred almost simultaneously in October — the one in Eastern Europe and the other in the Middle East.

The spirit of Geneva rested at bottom on a mutual understanding not to alter the status quo by force. Each of the two crises of the autumn was an upheaval of the status quo. The one upheaval touched the vital interests of the Soviet Union, the other the vital interests of Western Europe and the Western world.

Crushed Rebellion

The East European upheaval, which reached a climax in the Hungarian rebellion, threatened the whole position of the Soviet Union in Europe. Seen from Moscow, it threatened to create, as the saying goes, a vacuum of power which would probably be filled by anti-Russian governments.

In the face of this very real threat, the Soviet government, with its military chieftans setting the pace, reversed the liberating policy of anti-Stalinism. It crushed the Hungarian rebellion, and asserted its overriding authority in the whole area. A measure of its success is the Polish election last week where the defense of Poland against the Hungarian treatment was believed to depend upon proving to the Russians that Poland is both Communist and loyal to the Soviet Union.

In this East European crisis there was submerged, perhaps for some time to come, the hope of an accommodation between the Soviet Union and the West. For that hope rested on the possibility that Russia would accept generally all over Eastern Europe some variant of the neutralism which prevails in Austria, Finland and Yugoslavia. The Hungarian crisis seems to have convinced the Kremlin that if in Eastern Europe they relax their domination, they may lose all their influence.

We may say that, as a result, the Soviet Union has filled the vacuum by reasserting its own domination. As this means that an East-West accommodation has become much more difficult, the cold war is intensified. But the Soviet Union has re-established its authority inside its orbit.

British Power Collapses

Looked at broadly, the Middle Eastern upheaval has meant the collapse of the British power, and this carries with it the threat that almost the whole region might turn against the West. The Eisenhower Doctrine in an effort to reassert, not Western authority which is gone, but a modicum of Western influence. Though Britain and France made a clumsy try, the West has not done in the Middle East what the Russians have done in Eastern Europe. The West has not reasserted its authority by force. The Eisenhower doctrine is merely an assertion of the American presence in the Middle East, and an attempt to do something with the Arab states by a mixture of prestige, persuasion and inducements.

During the autumn crises the Soviet Union was able to isolate and insulate Eastern Europe against any form of outside intervention. The U. N. has been impotent, and its impotence has been advertised to the world by the noise of its many resounding resolutions.

The Middle East, on the contrary, has not been isolated and insulated. The great fact about the Middle East is that Russia, with strong support in the United Nations, is able to move actively to counteract the efforts which the President means to make to maintain Western influence in the area.

Russian Warning

There is no use under-estimating the diplomatic force of the warning against allowing bases for nuclear weapons which was issued in Moscow this week. This warning is addressed to the key countries in the great semi-circle which extends from Japan and Okinawa through Iran and Turkey to Western Europe.

The warning consists of a reminder to these exposed countries that in case of war, unless they are military neutrals, they will be defenseless targets for Soviet missiles. This is a powerful argument for neutralism, and it is not easy to see how the administration proposes to deal with that argument.

Yet it is no exaggeration to say that the issue of neutralism is the paramount issue in the whole world that lies close to the Soviet Union.

Radical Changes Seen In Allied Defense Plan

By CHARLES M. MCCANN

The Allied defense set-up is undergoing a radical change in both Western Europe and the Middle East.

The change in Europe is marked by the visit of British Defense Secretary Duncan Sandys to Washington and the appointment of a German general as commander of American, British, French and West German troops under the North Atlantic Alliance.

In the Middle East, of course, the change is marked by the Eisenhower Doctrine under which the United States would take prime responsibility in that big area for defense against Communist aggression.

Sandys' job is to outline to Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson the policy of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

This policy is to reduce expenditure on armaments drastically and to base British defense on guided missiles and nuclear weapons.

Emphasize German Role

The appointment of West German Lt. Gen. Hans Speidel to command what is called the Central European Area of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization means that increasing emphasis is going to be put on West Germany's role in the defense of Western Europe.

Both the United States and Britain plan drastic reductions of their forces in Germany, which would be the first line of defense in event of a war with Soviet Russia in that part of the world. Most of France's NATO troops already have been sent to Algeria.

West Germany is just really getting started on its rearmament program.

The first of 100,000 draftees for the West German army have started enrolling and undergoing physical examination.

The West German air force is now forming. It is planned to set up first-line air force units in 1959.

U.S. Western Barrier

It is now quite clear that in the Middle East the United States, under the Eisenhower Doctrine, would replace Britain and France as the chief Western barrier against Communist penetration.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told a congressional committee last Friday that British and French troops would be a handicap to the United States in the Middle East. He explained that the Arab countries were hostile to Britain and France because of their recent invasion of the Suez Canal Zone, among other things.

But it seems increasingly likely that Turkey, Iraq, Iran and Pakistan may play an important part in the new defense lineup.

U.S. Cooperates

Britain is the fifth member. The United States, which sponsored the Baghdad alliance, cooperates with its members. It has refused to joint the pact outright. Now, it seems increasingly possible that if the United States does not join the alliance, it will seek the cooperation of the four Moslem countries in making the Eisenhower Doctrine effective.

Turkey's cooperation, especially, seems essential. Turkey, which like Iran has a long frontier opposite the Soviet Union, also has the biggest and best army in the whole Middle East. Its influence is great throughout the Moslem world and it is a staunch friend of the United States.

Fairly Spoken—

Children Can Sense if Elders Dislike Them

By MARGARET LATROBE

We were awfully young, and the aunts were awfully old. But we knew which liked us and which did not. There was perhaps a tacit or forgotten rule about "respect due our elders" — and let me tell you, we respected them one and all. Otherwise, there would have been serious and sudden disruption of our small world.

Mrs. Latrobe

Concepts such as respect, financial standing, color of skin, political persuasion were of no import to us. We were children. We only felt things about people; we didn't think about them. To a child it makes no difference whether an old woman is one's grandmother or great-aunt or friend of these ancient grown-ups. What does matter is, does that person like me? To a child, kind old gentlemen can be enchanting — much like children themselves. Or they can be frightening figures whose mustaches are stained, and whose expressions carry the message pleasant words can't change.

Children cannot understand why some of their elders like them, and others don't. Since the fault cannot be their own, the child reasons it must lie in malevolence of the old.

Sometimes we wondered if our mothers were as bright as they might be, in failing to perceive what was painfully plain to us. Feeling the occasional cold hand of dislike above our heads, we sulked and balked and even gleefully thought up outrageous ways to make certain aunts tremble with fury and frustration. We knew if they could only give us a good licking, it would be more than a pleasure — almost a mystical satisfaction. But with our own mothers standing between us and richly deserved overt attack, we took sweet revenge on an aunt for her affront to childhood. She didn't like us.

Outward respect? Chilly politeness? That we readily gave. Our mammas hadn't raised any fools.

But oh, the difference with those whose hands were always outstretched for a quick hug or pat, even when we interruped grown-up talk. We felt and reacted to their warm hearts as wildflowers to the sun. Nothing, nothing could have led us to disappoint or hurt one of those blessed old people. One very old aunt kept a withered and tattered parrot caged on her creaking porch, — the three of them approaching their centennial. Or so we imagined. We knew porch, parrot and aunt were older than 60 — and what was older than that? Only God. Aunt Laura and Uncle George — both so kind and sweet. Even the parrot was less irritable to us than to others; it knew we were liked in that house.

Then Aunt May — fragile in a white lawn dress, lace edged, and white shoes picking their way across the freshly oiled road. We remember that her arms were always around us, and that she winked when her family scolded her about the white shoes tripping through gravelly oil. Her clothes smelled of flowers, her voice softly troubled. She had had a "no-good" husband, but she stood up to life with what strength she had. The family worried about her. We didn't — we knew what was in her heart. Love enough, and for us.

And now that we are older, would we ant "respect" from children? I ouldn't. Because I remember how empty it is. If children give me regard, let it be for the best of reasons — because of what I have felt for them.

Patricia L. Murt, Weds R. P. Nandor

Patricia Louise Murt and Ronald Paul Nandor exchanged nuptial vows in a ceremony solemnized on Saturday morning, Jan. 26, in the new St. Sebastian R. C. Church of Belle Vernon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murt, of Fairhope and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nandor, of North Charleroi.

Double ring rites were solemnized by the Rev. Henry Hanse at 10 o'clock before an altar arranged with ferns and vases of white pompons and stock.

Mrs. Michael Yencsik was the organist and the responses to the mass were sung by Umbert DeRienzo, Domenick Caniglani, uncle of the bride and Robert McDonough, cousin of the bride.

White crash lined the aisle by which the bride approached the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage.

Chantilly Lace

The bridal gown was fashioned of white nylon net and Chantilly lace and was styled floor length. It was worn over heavy satin and was designed and made by Mrs. Nandor, mother of the bridegroom. The fitted bodice featured a scoop neckline with a scalloped edge trimmed in oat and seed pearls and crystal sequins. The long tapered sleeves were edged with ruffled tulle and ended in points, which were accented with seed pearls at the wrist. The very full skirt of net was made with a deep panel of lace and a waistline peplum of lace. Both were scalloped and trimmed with seed pearls. Her fingertip veil of sheer illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls and sequins and the bridal bouquet was a spray of white carnations centered with a white orchid with lily of the valley streamers. For jewelry she chose pearl and rhinestone earrings.

Bridal Party

Georgia Nicholson, of Charleroi, a friend of the bride, was the maid of honor. She chose a shrimp colored floor length gown of crystalette and taffeta styled with a fitted strapless bodice with a full skirt and matching jacket. She wore a matching picture hat with a large bow at the back and elbow length mitts, and carried an arm spray of white carnations with shrimp colored centers and tied with shrimp colored ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Thomas Gilchrist, of Fairhope, who wore poudre blue, Patricia Nandor, sister of the bridegroom, who wore yellow, and Karen Zamiska, of Charleroi, cousin of the bridegroom, who wore light green. Their ensembles were all styled identically to that worn by the maid of honor and their arm spray bouquets were of white carnations. The flower centers were tinted to match the gowns and the ribbon streamers were also matching.

Edward Nandor, of Warren, O., brother of the bridegroom, was the best man and serving as ushers were Harry Cope, cousin of the bride, Donald Huston and Donald Dunkers.

Flower Girl

Donna Lee Cope, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dusty rose floor length gown of taffeta and net with a fitted bodice, short puffed sleeves and a full skirt. Her headpiece matched her gown and she carried a bouquet of white carnations with rose tinted centers. Tommie Murt, brother of the bride, was the ringbearer.

Mrs. Murt selected a light blue crystaline dress with black accessories and Mrs. Nandor chose a light blue lace dress with a white hat and other accessories of black. Both wore white carnation corsages tied with silver ribbon.

Grandparents Present

Mrs. Manda Cope, maternal grandmother of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. John Murt, the bride's paternal grandparents were present. Mrs. Cope wore black and and Mrs. Murt wore navy blue. Their white carnation corsages were tied with gold ribbon.

A wedding breakfast for 70 guests was served at the Fairhope Rod and Gun Club and in the evening there was a reception held there. There were 300 guests present from Warren, P., Flint, Mich., Bellevue, Clairton, Rochester, Pittsburgh and area towns.

The club rooms were deocrated with colored streamers and white wedding bells and a four tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table. It was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and was baked by Mrs. Irene Trader and Mrs. Margaret Pozum. The Komatz Trio furnished music for dancing.

The bride was graduated from Bellmar High School in 1953 and Allegheny General Hospital School of Nursing, Pittsburgh, in 1956. Before her marriage she was on the nursing staff of the Charleroi-Monessen Hospital.

Mr. Nandor was graduated in 1952 from Charleroi High School, served four years in the Air Force. He will enter the University of Pittsburgh in February, where he will study mechanical engineering.

When the couple left for a brief trip the bride was wearing royal blue satin with a white hat and black accessories and her white orchid as a corsage. They will reside in their own apartment in Pittsburgh.

A rehearsal on Friday evening was followed by a party at the home of the groom's parents. The bride and groom gave their attendants gifts and luncheon was served.

FRONT SKIRT FULLNESS — for a dress in spruce tones of yarn dyed wool from a new designer's collection. Slim at the back, flared pannier drapes are buttoned at the waist in front. Symmetrical folds square off the neckline.

The Chiropractor And You

NERVE EXHAUSTION . . .

BY

Dr. Frank F. Tucci

An interested reader writes: "When I awake in the morning I feel nearly as tired as when I went to bed." She also included symptoms of liver, stomach and bowel complications and wanted to know what Chiropractic could do for her. General nerve exhaustion is a frequent complaint. As a rule nervous folks usually overeat, have indigestion and are troubled with constipation. Headaches, neuritis, so-called rheumatism and dizziness are other symptoms associated with nerve exhaustion. Common measures resorted to overcome these deficiencies afford but temporary relief, and for the most part tend to further deplete the vital reserve of nerve energy.

To be well from such troubles all bodily processes must receive their proper nerve energy from the brain. As long as all nerve channels are kept clear there is assurance of a constant supply of nerve energy to replenish the nerve energy utilized in bodily processes. In case of nerve exhaustion, or where health is less than normal, there is a reduced flow of nerve energy. With the body demand for nerve energy greater than the supply, it soon calls upon the vital reserve nerve supply of the body to meet the demand. This lowers the vitality and depletes the nerve supply and we have nerve exhaustion.

Chiropractors maintain that the spine must be in proper alignment to assure a proper flow of nerve energy from brain to every cell in the body. Chiropractic adjustments keep the spine in line.

Your spine in line—given time will correct nerve exhaustion.

British Defense Minister Begins Talks in Capital

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Defense Minister Duncan Sandys today began talks with American officials that could lead to greater commitments of U.S. troops and money to replace British manpower withdrawals from the free world's defense system.

Sandys arrived from New York Sunday afternoon. He said he was not "on a begging mission" and looked forward to "friendly and happy cooperation" in reaching a British-American agreement on future defense strategy.

He was scheduled to meet with Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson this afternoon. He conferred with Secretary of State John Foster Dulles and British Ambassador Sir Harold Caccia at Dulles' home Sunday night.

Sandys was exected to seek from Wilson greater British access to U.S. guided missiles and tactical atomic weaons to make up for cutbacks in British military manpower.

Britain is reducing its troop strength throughout the world as a result of the economic setbacks it has suffered as a result of the Suez Canal crisis.

Sandys said his talks with Wilson would cover Allied military commitments in the Far East and Middle East as well as those in Western Europe.

Humphrey Calls For Trimming of Record Budget

WASHINGTON (UP) — Treasury Secretary George M. Humphrey called upon the American people Sunday night to demand that Congress trim President Eisenhower's record peacetime budget.

"If we can make a sufficient reduction now, then we would be in a position to reduce taxes a year from now," Humphrey said.

Humphrey emphasized that President Eisenhower is in "complete accord" with his goal of reducing, where feasible, the administration's proposed $71 8 billion spending program for the fiscal year beginning July 1. He said there also is "almost unanimous belief in the cabinet that we have to improve the situation."

But the secretary said the final answer to government economy lies with the public. He said its ever-growing demand for more and more government services always results in pressure on Congress to appropriate more money.

Humphrey said he never had seen "any man work harder" than Mr. Eisenhower to hold down government spending but that "the executive can't do it all."

"I think we ought to start with the people and then go to the Congress and then go to the Executive and have the Executive carry it [an economy drive] through."

Winter Recreation Program Starts for Youngsters Here

Baptiste Manzini, head of the winter recreation program for the Fayette City School district at the Community Building has expressed pleasure in the response being shown in the program that started several weeks ago.

The intial enrollment and program was instituted by Manzini and Richard Richardson, a certified athletic director, and the program has been arranged to include any child from the fourth grade through high school.

During this early part of the program, practice in basketball has occupied most of their time. With 98 boys and 46 girls enrolled they are now ready to begin a regular schedule.

The two largest groups, boys from the fourth and fifth grades and from the sixth and seventh grades, have been placed in teams and each group will form two leagues. The former group has 36 boys and basketball teams will be known as the Wildcats, Generals, Cadets and Warriors. The latter group has 28 boys and teams are the Knights, Hurricanes, Globe Trotters and Pirates.

The fourth and fifth graders will play on Thursday and Friday evenings from 6 to 7 and on Saturday at noon. The sixth and seventh graders on Thursday and Friday from 7 to 8 p. m. and on Saturday at 10 a. m.

Boys from the eighth and ninth grades have an enrollment of 15. They are not arranged in teams because of the small group but will play in pick up teams on Thursday and Friday from 8 to 9. The oldest group, tenth, eleventh and twelfth graders, play from 9 to 10 p. m. the same evenings. They have an enrollment of 19.

The girls will play on Saturdays from 2 to 4 p. m. The first hour will be devoted to fourth, fifth and sixth graders. The second hour will be for seventh, eighth and ninth graders.

This week's schedule for interplay in the leagues has been arranged as follows:

Thursday evening: 6 o'clock Warriors, vs. Cadets; at 7 o'clock the Pirates will play the Globe Trotters. On Friday evening, the Wildcats will play the Generals at 6 p. m. and the Knights will meet the Hurricanes at 7. On Saturday morning the Knights will play the Pirates at 10 and the Hurricanes will meet the Globe Trotters at 11 a. m.

At noon the Warriors will meet the Generals and at 1 p. m. the Wildcats will play the Cadets. This program will vary from week to week so as to keep an interesting schedule. Parents are invited to come and watch their children play.

Eagles Auxiliary Plans Activities

The Auxiliary of the Cookstown Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles met Thursday evening with the past president, Mrs. Ann Rockidge, in charge.

This Sunday, Feb. 3, the ladies will hold a party in observance of the 59th anniversary of the Eagles. During the social hour Ethel McCready and Louise Hicks served as hostesses. The next regularly scheduled meeting will be held on Thursday evening, Feb. 7.

Large Crowd at Ladies Guild Party

The party held Sunday evening by the Ladies Guild and Christian Mothers of St. Edward's Catholic Church was a success by the large crowd that attended in the social rooms.

Games were played and prizes awarded. The arrangements were made by the committee, Ann Lovich, chairman; Stella Kroskie co-chairman; Kathryn Dorcan, Julia Swantek, Mary McKee, Dorothy Helgus, Cora Sapolak, Margaret Pozum and Mary Domyanich.

Actor-director William Eythe Dies at Age 38

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Funeral arrangements were being made today for actor-director William Eythe, co-producer of the Broadway stage hit "Lend An Ear," who died at Good Samaritan Hospital of a liver infection.

Eythe, who was 38, entered the hospital Jan. 16 for treatment of hepatitis. He died Saturday night of serious complications arising from the condition.

Eythe's uncle, Robert Eythe, arrived here over the week end from the family home in Mars, Pa., to assist in funeral plans and said the burial probably would be held in the Pennsylvania town.

Eythe, a graduate of Carnegie Tech in Pittsburgh, appeared on the New York stage in "The Moon is Down" and acted in such motion pictures as "The Ox-Bow Incident," "The House on 92nd Street," and "The Song of Bernadette."

He formerly was married to Buff Cobb, granddaughter of late humorist Irving S. Cobb. Besides his uncle, he leaves his mother, Mrs. Carl Eythe of Mars, Pa., a sister and a brother.

Movie Club Plans for Tournament

If the Monessen Movie Club goes through with its plan to sponsor a holiday basketball tournament next season, efforts will be made to secure a top quint from eastern Pennsylvania. A feeler has already been mailed to Allentown, always a floor power . . . This year's City Basketball League campaign has been ruled "off-limits" for Monessen High students. Recreation Department officials point out that the City League is an "adult program" and that students have their own intramural set-up . . . Wayne Wolff, Greensburg High's fine all-around athlete last season, is now colleging at Wake Forest. Wayne played end on the freshmen football team but did not seek a basketball berth.

* * *

A surprising number of critics still feel the Monessen High basketballers may cause trouble in the Section 5 race this season. The pint-sized Hounds showed enough scrap last Tuesday to indicate that they'll press the favored Charleroi Cougars all the way in the current race . . . Don Stefan, former Centerville High basketballer, is on the way up in the singing world. Currently he's working nightly at the Tropics Club in Braddock . . . Lloyd Sharrar, West Virginia's much improved 6-10 junior, has outrebounded all but two of the 15 centers he's opposed this season. Sharrar is the gangling kid who looked completely lost some years back when he played for Meadville in the PIAA playoffs at the Pitt Field House.

Does Uniontown Want Out of Sec. 2?

In Uniontown, there's agitation to have the Red Raiders moved out of Section 2. That circuit is made up primarily of Westmoreland County schools, thus causing a travel problem for the Raiders . . . The WCJHSAL is making plans for a spring program. In case you're interested, all of those letters stand for this impressive title: Westmoreland County Junior High School Athletic League . . . During his recent visit to Arnold, former heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano literally chilled some of his admirers. It seems Marciano is a fresh air bug. Among other things, he insisted on rolling down the window of the car which transported him from the airport to Arnold in freezing weather.

* * *

St. Vincent College basketball fortunes should shoot upward when the second half of the season gets underway. Soon to be eligible are former Greensburg high standouts Jack Kalbfus and Bernie Peterson, who were forced to sit out first semester play . . . Speaking of St. Vincent, a former Bearcat star—6-2 Willie Varner—has enrolled at Indiana State Teachers College. Varner, who high schooled at New Kensington, was tremendous for St. Vincent last season before withdrawing from school because of academic difficulties . . . Included in the group of district sportsmen who plan to buy Randall Park horse-racing track in Ohio for an estimated $3,600,000 is William C. Powers, of Fredericktown. For years, Powers was engaged in the auto business in his home town.

Pitt Frosh Cagers Have 'M' Look

Pitt's current freshmen basketball team has an "M" look. The names of all five starters begin with M: John Mandish, Gene Massari, Tom Maloney, John Mill and John Malley. Besides, the top two reserves are Eliot Maravich and Bill Mauro . . . Speaking of Pitt, times have certainly changed. A press release from the Panthers this week advises that Duquesne University has six more home games at the Field House this season. A few years back, the Field House announcer was under orders not to even mention Duquesne scores . . . A 16 mm sound film running for 30 minutes, which reviews the highlights of Big Ten Football in 1956 is available at a booking charge of $5 through the Big Ten office in Chicago.

Golfing Grandfathers Eye PGA Championship

By OSCAR FRALEY

DUNEDIN, Fla. (UP) — Two golfing grandfathers trying to realize the dreams of their youth meet today in a playoff for the PGA seniors championship.

It will be Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., grandfather of 10 who is only four days from his 58th birthday, against Bob Stupple of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, grandfather of one who only a week ago became eligible for this 50-and-over tournament.

Neither of them was a Ben Hogan or a Sam Snead in his youth, although each gave it a try. Watrous had the edge in the fairway success department, winning the Canadian Open in 1922. and being named to three Ryder Cup teams.

One Brief Triumph

Stupple, a powerfully built man whose hair is edged in gray, tried the tour in the early 30's when they "played for peanuts." His one brief triumph was the 1933 St. Petersburg Open, where he defeated such as Walter Hagen, Denny Shute, and Horton Smith.

"First prize was $500," he grinned after tying Watrous and setting up today's 18-hole playoff. "I guess I was born 30 years too soon."

Playing shots out of the past, both Watrous and Stupple have been much more successful as seniors. The sandy-haired Michigan pro twice has won the Seniors, in 1950 and 1951, and twice has been runner-up. This makes him the Sam Snead of the golfing gaffers and he would like to stack up that third title and give the grandpappies of the future something at which to shoot.

"I had to wait a long time to make my mark," Watrous admitted. "But I guess everything comes to him who waits — and keeps swinging.

Shares Feelings

Stupple feels the same way.

He has been a pro since he was 18 years old, working at Chicago, Skokie, Ill., and at Cedar Rapids Country Club for the past six years. His best score was 29-31—60 at the par 70 Indian Creek Country Club at Marion, Iowa.

"I have three daughters and I had to go back to teaching," Stupple explained. "Every pro dreams of playing the circuit but in those days winning a tournament just didn't pay enough money."

If he takes this one, it will be the greatest payoff of his career: $1,000 and the teacher trophy, $2,000 from a golf ball company whose products he is using, and an all-expense trip to England to play the British senior champion.

Indoor Track Season Filled With Surprises

WASHINGTON (P) —The most surprising indoor track season in recent years shifts to Boston this week for the Boston A.A. Games with foot-racing fans wondering when the mile stars will start to shine.

The two latest meets, at Philadelphia Friday and here on Saturday, produced nothing but surprises.

Like the continued failure of Laszlo Tabori, the Hungarian four-minute miler who came here rather than return home after the Olympic Games. Tabori finished second in a two-mile in Boston a week ago, third at the same distance Friday, and then dropped out with a "stomach ache" here.

Tabori wil skip this week's meet and make his next appearance in the one mile run in the Millrose Games in New York, Feb. 9, and his coach promised today that Laszlo will be "stronger" for that race.

Surprise No. 2 has been the failure of sprint record holder Dave Sime of Duke to win so far. Ira Murchison of Chicago, an Olympian, beat Sime at 50 yards in Philadelphia, at 70 and 80 yards here, and then Sime was disqualified for three false starts as five-foot-four Ira captured the 100 yard dash for a clean sweep.

Murchison, pole vault star Rev. Bob Richards of La Verne, Calif., hurdler Lee Calhoun, and runner Tom Courtney of Livngston, N.J., were the Olympic team members who did win here.

Richards, two-time Olympic vault champion, cleared 15 feet again to win his event. Calhoun, Olympic 110-meter hurdles champion, set a new world indoor record of 8.2 seconds for the 70-yard high hurdles. But Courtney's easy victory in the 1,000 yard run was tainted by the absence of Arnie Sowell, his nemesis from Pittsburgh who has beaten him twice this season but withdrew to favor an injured ankle.

Cro-Ams Seek 14th Win in Row Tonight

City League basketball action will resume tonight with a triple-header card at the Junior High gym.

The feature attraction will match the unbeaten Cro-Ams against the fourth place Ozarks at 8 p. m.

Other games will show S-L against Viaduct at 7 and East End against Fuocos at 9.

The Cro-Ams have won 13 straight games without a loss. So every tussle in which they appear will take on special importance.

Might Do It

It's almost fantastic to imagine a perfect season in City League play. Yet the Cro-Ams just might do it, even though the pressure is obviously mounting.

The Ozarks, with a 7-6 record, have been playing good ball of late and they should provide some serious competition.

Triple-header cards will also keep the City Leaguer dribblers busy on Wednesday and Thursday of this week.

District Colleges Begin Big Week Of Cage Action

By UNITED PRESS

Action perks up on the college basketball front this week after the mid-season slowdown for mid-term examinations.

The "big three" of Western Pennsylvania, Pitt, Penn State and Duquesne, all are scheduled either at home or on the road. Duquesne will be host to St. Francis of Brooklyn Wednesday night in the Pitt Field House, and Pitt's Panthers play St. Johns of New York the following night.

Penn State travels to Lehigh Wednesday and has a game set with Army at West Point Saturday.

18 Games on Tap

Virtually all smaller schools also will swing back into action with 18 games on tap.

Saturday night at Buffalo, N.Y., Duquesne turned cold as the weather and dropped a 79-63 decision to St. Bonaventure's Brown Indians. It was the first time the Bonnies had defeated the Dukes in their last eight meetings.

Brendan McCan paced the winners with 18 points while Red Ryan collected the same number for Duquesne. Bob DePalma added 14 for the Dukes.

Ricketts Streak

Dave Ricketts kept his consecutive free throw string intact by converting six chances to run the streak to 30, one less than the school record which is held by his brother, Dick.

In the district's only other games Saturday night, Penn State edged Rutgers, 78-77, and Billy Blair set a career-scoring record as Geneva bumped Youngstown College, 79-69 at Beaver Falls.

Husing Award Goes to Graham

NEW YORK (UP) —The Sports Broadcasters Assn. voted the first annual Ted Husing Award today to Jim Graham, the Oklahoma A&M pole vaulter who voluntarily gave up his berth on the 1956 Olympic team.

College Cagers Back in Action Ater Exam Lull

By JOHN GRIFFIN

The mid-year "vacation" is over for college basketball teams, and first place in three major conferences goes on the line tonight when full-scale warfare breaks out again.

Kentucky, the nation's No. 3 team which gained a tie for the Southeastern Conference lead by whipping Vanderbilt, 91-83, Saturday night, risks that share tonight when it visits Georgia Tech—the school that stunned the court world two years ago by upsetting Kentucky twice.

Buckeyes Risk Record

Ohio State, Big Ten pacemaker and the nation's No. 10 team, risks its perfect 6-0 league record in a road game against Michigan State, and Texas Western, unbeaten leader of the Border Conference at 4-0, plays host to Tempe State.

These three games keynote a week in which the court stars who have been busy with mid-year examinations for two weeks, swing into the second and decisive half of the season.

Before the week is out, every team in the top 10 of the United Press rankings will see action except ninth-ranked Seattle, idle until Feb. 5.

Kentucky Sets Style

Kentucky was one of four high-ranked teams playing last Saturday, and set the winning style for the quartet. The Wildcats sank 43.9 percent of their shots as Gerry Calvert and Johnny Cox scored 23 points each to beat 15th-ranked Vanderbilt.

Louisville (No. 6) nipped Dayton, 57-56, in a replay of last year's National Invitation Tournament finals on soph Hal Andrews' 25-foot shot at the final buzzer; Illinois (No. 8) equalled the Chicago Stadium scoring record in whipping Notre Dame, 99-81; and Ohio State (No. 10) rallied in the final six minutes to beat Northwestern, 83-71, as Frank Howard and Jim Laughlin scored 20 points each.

Only Two Games on Tap in Mon Valley Tomorrow Night

Schoolboys basketballers, having reached the midway point in the current WPIAL season, will take it easy this week. Most of them, at least.

Just one Section 5 quint is scheduled tomorrow. Charleroi will play host to Washington in an exhibition.

Another valley game will show West Newton at Rostraver.

Otherwise the basketball scene hereabouts will be quiet until Friday.

There will be lots of activity then with Monessen going to Brownsville, California appearing at Bellmar and Donora showing at Monongahela.

Limited Card

Tomorrow's limited card will be interesting, at least.

Charleroi, breezing along with six straight Section 5 decisions, may have a rough time with visiting Washington. The Little Prexies can be mighty good at times. They proved that by licking Monessen earlier in the year.

Moreover it will be interesting to see if the experienced Cougars are able to handcuff Washington's James (Beanie) Gordon, generally considered the finest players in the WPIAL this season.

Seek Vengeance

At Rostraver, Coach George Everett's Leps will try to avenge an earlier exhibition loss to West Newton.

There's little Junior High activity, either, until later in the week.

One exhibition is scheduled this afternoon. Rostraver will go to Charleroi.

Monessen's Junior High dribblers will return to duty on Friday, playing host to Monongahela.

Red Wings Begins To Pull Away In Hockey Race

By UNITED PRESS

The Detroit Red Wings, finally beginning to play the brand of hockey experts had been expecting of them, opened a three-point lead in the National Hockey League race today with a red-hot record of six victories in their last seven games.

Detroit whipped Toronto, 3-1, Sunday night, moving three points ahead of the second-place Montreal Canadiens, who bowed to Boston, 5-2. The New York Rangers climbed to within a point of fourth place with a 3-2 triumph over Chicago.

The Red Wings' victory was their seventh against the Maple Leafs this year and Norm Ullman and Dutch Reibel assured it with first period goals. John Bucyk notched an insurance third period marker while Rudy Migay's first period tally saved Toronto from a shutout.

Rookie goalie Don Simmons, playing his second major league game, was instrumental in Boston's win over Montreal. He made 27 saves.

Gerry Foley's goal at 8:23 of the second period turned out to be the decisive one int he Rangers' triumph. It came on the heels of first period goals by Parker MacDonald and Camille Henry and proved the winner.

BOWLING

By JOE JANNOTTA

Since originating this column some months back, we've tried to offer advice to improve your enjoyment of bowling.

Now a reader has asked what I would consider the most important tips.

To begin with, it's always been my contention that good bowlers are made, not born. They must serve an apprenticeship in long practice sessions on the fundamentals of the game.

Learn to Relax

If I had to offer one tip above all others, it will have to be: "Learn to Relax."

You can not do your best in any sport while tense or overeager. A tenseness in bowling is quickly betrayed by a "zigzag" approach on choppy motions.

There are other important tips which I'd like to pass along to the readers in my columns on Wednesday and Friday of this week.

Cards, Robins Win in Bowling

Cardinals won two games from the Bluejays and Robins took a pair from the Orioles in Eagles Ladies League bowling last night.

Scoring leaders were Helen Wolford, 137-375; Ruth Koget, 149-375; Mary Teske, 156-368; Betty Gedeon, 133-339; and Elizabeth Rieh, 142-332.

Standings show Cardinals, 8-4; Robins, 6-6; Bluejays, 5-7; and Orioles, 5-7.

Close Scores in Fence League

Chuligs won two games from the Vlasics and Calderones took a pair from the Mascettas in Field Fence League bowling over the weekend.

Top scorers were Chuck Vlasic, 153-422; Andy Kasic, 167-446; Albert Allessio, 148-410; George Bobby, 145-407; Ridzy Calderone, 165-424; Nick Mascetta, 209-422; Bill Doyle, 141-402.

Standings show Calderones, 12-3; Mascettas, 7-8; Vlacis, 7-8; and Chuligs, 4-11.

West Authors Bowling Sweep

West blanked the South in Ball and Chain League bowling over the weekend, thus assuring the first half title. The second half race begins on Feb. 3.

In another match last night, North took a pair from the East.

Leading scorers were Pete Druash, 198-541; Pearl Weightman, 113-316; Bob McKeaver, 197-493; John DeGregorio, 149-408; Walla Verarga, 149-423; Marge Berger, 111-248; Ray Echart, 202-545.

Standings show West, 25-20; North, 23-22; East, 23-22; South, 22-23.

St. Monica Sweeps In Ladies League

St. Monica blanked St. Ann and St. Mary won two games from St. Theresa in St. Cajetan Ladies League bowling over the weekend.

Scoring leaders were Lillian DeMarino, 132-374; Gloria Esposito, 133-374; Yolanda Diehl, 131-381; Jerry Elyanich, 102-281.

Standings show St. Ann, 16-5; St. Mary, 10-11; St. Theresa, 10-11; St. Monica, 4-17.

Monessen Wins in GPL Bowling

Monessen Bowling Center won two of three games at Duquesne over the weekend in Greater Pittsburgh Bowling League action.

The city keglers missed a clean sweep by three pins. They posted scores of 840, 959 and 842 for a total of 2641. In contrast, the losers had marks of 805, 799 and 845.

Dave Schaum paced Monessen with a 217-559 series. Eli Freville had a 209-590 and Mike Madzy chipped in with 252-534.

For Duquesne, E. Kovac was tops with 204-576.

Big Ski Meet

DONNER SUMMIT, Calif. (UP) — Dick Buek of Soda Springs, Calif., won the men's giant slalom race and Starr Walton of Sacramento won the women's event during a ski meet at the Donner Summit Sugar Bowl Sunday.

Lucy Faltz Barely Misses Bowling Mark

Lucy Faltz, a member of the Monessen team in the Mon Valley Ladies Bowling League, stole the show in the 20th annual Polio Tournament at Mier's in Uniontown over the weekend.

Mrs. Faltz, who lives in Irwin, not only took top honors on the women's division, but she earned herself a bundle of cash, too.

The talented Mrs. Faltz rolled a brilliant 287 score. In so doing, she won a $500 bond from a shirt company for topping the 275 mark.

Mrs. Fatlz just missed the world's record for women, which stands at 289. She had a spare in the first frame, then threw ten straight strikes. However she split-out on her final throw.

Gold Medal

The big score also earned for Mrs. Faltz a gold medal from the ARBDC.

Mrs. Faltz's total score was 634 in the tourney. She also recorded games of 164 and 183.

Placing second in the tourney was another Monessen bowler, Babe Kroskie. She had games of 219-203-149 for a fine 571 series.

Mrs. Kroskie had a good chance at a 600 series but she had three splits in a row in her final game and had to settle for a 149.

Babe's husband — Ed Kroskie — was not exactly embarrased in the tourney. He placed second in the men's division with scores of 196-180-230 for a 606 series.

Men's Title

The men's title was won by Andy Shuman of Fairbanks with a 610 total.

Best single game score in the men's division was rolled by Dave Schaum of the Monessen Bowling Center team. He had a 279.

Another Monessen entry, Mary Palm, finished high up with a 520 total.

Thus Monessen bowlers had a great time in the event.

Palmer Earns Some, At Least

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UP)—Arnold Palmer, of Latrobe, Pa., picked up $137.50 in prize money Sunday as the Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament ended in a three-way tie for first place between Ken Venturi, Mike Souchak and Jimmy Demaret.

Palmer shot a final round of 68 to finish with a 72-hole total of 288. A whopping 80 for his third round kept him well down in the list of money winners.

Jay Hebert, formerly of Erie but now playing out of Sanford, Fla., finished with a 286, good for a $153.33 paycheck.

Italian Hall Scores Sweep

ITALIAN SPORTS ANGELA ... Italian Hall swept over Aquarium in Center Bowling League action on Saturday to create a three-way tie for first place in the loop standings.

Elks won two games from Maintenance and Turners took a pair from the Cro-Ams in other matches.

Top scorers were Sam Havirlak, 214-502; Phil Lopresti, 172-484; George Zilka, 234-543; Skeets Jones, 191-582; Bill Valko, 219-588; and Steve Szabo, 200-538.

Cro-Ams, 3-9; and Aquarium, 2-10.

Greaves Takes On Fullmer in Non Title Bout

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (UP)—Champion Gene Fullmer plans to knock out Wilf Greaves in the early rounds of their non - title middleweight bout tonight and Greaves of Pittsburgh, says he will surprise everyone except himself by whipping the Utah strong boy.

Fullmer, however, is heavily favored to win the scheduled 10-round fight before an expected crowd of 4,500 in Salt Lake City's Fairgrounds Coliseum.

Also to be settled sometime today was a dispute over glove weights.

Greaves' manager, Jake Mintz, wants "the use of eight ounce gloves." He points out that "this is not a title bout and there is no reason for six-ounce gloves."

Manager Marv Jenson, who raises mink and manages Fullmer's boxing career, wants the lighter ones. "If Greaves can hit harder than Gene, as Mintz says he can, there's no reason why he should complain about the gloves," Jenson said.

Out for Kayo

Jenson also explained that Fullmer was out to "KO Greaves early."

Mintz wasn't outdone in the pre-fight self expression department. He said he was "very confident that my boy will upset the boxing world tonight."

Should Greaves, former Canadian amateur champion, pull such a surprise, Fullmer would get a return shot at him.

Tonight's bout will be the first for Fullmer since he lifted Sugar Ray Robinson's title in early January.

Three Tied for Lead in Tourney

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UP)—A couple of ex-college kids, Ken Venturi and Mike Souchak, and ole Jimmy Demaret, who graduated from the college of hard knocks, tangle here today in the playoff for the gold and glory in the $15,000 Thunderbird Invitational Golf Tournament.

The three men ended the regulation 72 holes Sunday in a deadlock with 273 strokes—11 under par for the distance.

And today it will be an 18-hole battle to see who takes home the first prize of $2,000; second place pays $1,000, and third $750.

Demaret, who is 45 and was winning in the big time before the 25-year-old Venturi was born, is the defending champion and he shot the finest golf Sunday (a 67) to pull up into the deadlock.

It was a dramatic finish to a scrambled race that saw from two to five men tied for the leadership every day; with Venturi sinking an exceptionally tough 18-foot putt on the 17th hole to tie Demaret, who already had finished; and then Souchak knocked in a 45-footer on the 18th to join the traffic jam.

Aaron Wants His Salary Doubled For '57 Season

By UNITED PRESS

Hammerin' Hank Aaron, the National League batting champion for 1956, wants the Milwaukee Braves to double his salary this year.

Aaron, who hit .328, is asking the Braves for "between $30,000 and $34,000," he revealed from his home in Mobile, Ala. He received between $15,000 and $17,000 last year.

"I think I helped the team," Aaron declared, "and I think I can help them even more this year."

Only 22, Aaron already has been acknowledged as one of baseball's outstanding hitters by all leading judges in the game. As a rookie in 1954 he batted .280 for the Braves. He followed that with a .314 mark in 1955 and then came on to win the batting title last season.

Aaron said he talked terms with General Manager John Quinn of the Braves last Thursday and that Quinn said he would call him back in a few days.

Release At 11 A.M. EST

Catcher Joe Ginsberg became the 19th member of the Orioles to agree to terms. Ginsberg, who also has caught for Detroit, Cleveland and Kansas City, came to the Orioles from the Athletics late last season.

Pittsburgh Schools Defending Small Insurance for Gridders

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A Pittsburgh high school official said today that the $150 insurance limit for scholastic football players is inadequate, "but it's all we can afford right now."

Herbert Roberts, director of physical education and health for city high schools, said the insurance fund would be depleted within a few years.

City high schools cover their injured players to a maximum of $150. But before a player can claim that amount, he must suffer two broken arms above the elbows. If a player breaks both arms below the elbow, his parents receive only $80 for medical expenses.

(The Monessen School Board adopted an insurance plan of its own several years ago to cover both junior and senior high school athletes.

(Everett Pancook, athletic director at Monessen, said today that all medical bills resulting from sports injuries are paid from the athletic treasury.

(According to Pancook, the school district dropped a previous insurance plan with a private company because "the premiums were high and the benefits comparatively low." The last existing premiums ranged from $14 to $16 per man in football and the maximum benefits came to only $150.

(In the past few seasons, at least two large hospital bills have been fully covered from the MHS sports treasury. One bill totalled more than $1600.)

The question of insurance came to the forefront recently as a result of a severe injury suffered by Dick Kadis, a Geneva College lineman. The 21-year-old Clevelander suffered a brain injury in a game against Waynesburg. His medical bills have exceeded $10,000 and have forced his family into debt.

Says Program Costs Money

City high schools finance their $8.90 premium by requiring players to contribute $1 and taking the remainder from the Athletic Injury Fund financed by the annual league championship game.

"The program costs us money," Roberts said. "We're eating into the surplus at the rate of $300 to $400 a year. We have enough left to last only a few more years."

Bethel High Schol Athletic Director Preston Ditty expressed a similar view. The plan at his school pays $100 for a compound fracture of the arm.

"All it does is cause a lot of inconvenience and trouble," he said.

Has Life Clause

The Bethel policy pays $7.50 daily for the first eight days of hospitalization and $5 thereafter up to the $100 maximum.

Scott Township High has a policy that includes $1000 life insurance, a $5,000 coverage for loss of hands, feet or sight, medical expenses up to $500 and dental expenses to $100. Premiums per player is $14.

Central, North and South Catholice high schools share in a diocesan program which protects students under a standard policy. With a $1,000 limit, the policy protects students in or en route to school and in all school supervised activities, including football.

Neither the PIAA nor the WPIAL offers an insurance program.

Argentine Golfer Takes Top Honors

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UP)—Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina equalled his own tournament record of 260 in winning the Jamaica Open Golf Championship Sunday for the second straight year. Steve Dudas of Erie, Pa., and Doug Sanders of Miami, Fla., tied for second with 263 totals.

Fort Wayne Stays in Front

By UNITED PRESS

A last-gasp, 103-102 victory over the New York Knicks in overtime kept the Fort Wayne Pistons ahead of St. Louis today in the red-hot Western Division race in the National Basketball Assn. even as the Boston Celtics turned the Eastern race into a runaway.

The Pistons came from behind in the extra session at home Sunday to nip the Knicks when George Yardley paced a surge in the last 90 seconds. The balding Yardley took scoring honors in the game with 26 poins.

The victory kept the Pistons ahead of the St. Louis quintet which handed Rochester its 10th straight defeat, 107-83. Boston opened up a 6½ game lead in the Eastern Division by drubbing second-place Philadelphia, 107-87, and the Syracuse Nationals beat Minneapolis, 94-93, on Al Bianchi's 20-foot jump shot with 24 seconds left in other Sunday games.

Golden Glove Finals Set for Pitt Field House

The Tri-State District's boxing fans apparently are having no difficulty picturing the University of Pittsburgh Field House as a boxing arena, though no fights have ever been held there.

The finals of the 12th annual Post-Gazette Dapper Dan Golden Gloves tournament have been scheduled for the arena, which heretofore has housed basketball games, wrestling, squash, track and the like.

From all corners of the Field House, the view for boxing is excellent. Judging by the rush for tickets, the fans seem to realize this.

The big championship card will take place on Thursday night, February 19.

Prelim Cards

Prior to that, four preliminary cards will take place at the Southside Recreation Center on Monday through Thursday, February 11 through 14.

Mail orders are being accepted by the Dapper Dan Club, Post-Gazette Building, Pittsburgh, 30 Pa. Tickets for the Field House card are priced at $1.50, $3.25 and $4.25. Preliminary night tickets sell for $1.50 and $3.00.

All indications point to capacity crowds for every night of fighting. Past tournaments have consistently played to full houses.

Throughout the Tri-State District of Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia, the gyms have been humming with activity the past few weeks as amateur boxers train into condition for the year's biggest sports show in the territory.
